Tuesday
FORT MEADE (AFP) - A

verdict is expected today in the trial of US soldier Bradley Manning, who faces life behind bars for leaking a massive trove of secret government files to WikiLeaks

US military judge Denise Lind plans to issue her judgement at 1700 GMT, her office said Monday.

Manning was serving as an intelligence analyst in Iraq when he sent the anti-secrecy website a vast cache of secret diplomatic cables and classified military reports from Iraq and Afghanistan

The 25-year-old has admitted to leaking some 700,000 documents but denied other charges, including the most serious count -- that he knowingly helped Osama bin Laden's global extremist network Al-Qaeda.

If convicted of that charge, he could spend the rest of his life in prison. The sentencing phase of the trial could begin as early as Wednesday.

Italy mourns 38 killed in coach crash

Photos depict (top): Hearses lined up outside a school in southern Italy Monday as sobbing relatives watch them take away the coffins of those killed when a coach plunged off a highway near Naples, the worst such accident in western Europe in a decade. Relatives and friends gathered at a nearby school where the bodies of their loved ones were laid out in the gymnasium, ahead of funerals to be held today. The accident came just days after a train crash in Spain last Wednesday which killed 79 people, the deadliest rail disaster in the country in decades.

Willem van de Zee of Parnassia Groep Nederland: The quality of life of the young addict and their recuperation has to be priority!

Recently, the Aruban government signed an agrimment with among others, Anti Drug Foundation of Aruba (FADA), Adopt an Addict Foundation, Foundation for the Management of Addicts (Aruba), Ministry of Public Health and Sports, Stichting Eliezer and the Parnassia Groep Nederland.

Parnassia Groep is a care foundation in Holland with ample experience and is well known for their success in the intensive care of addicts. They are known for their prevention program among young people, as well as for the psychic care and treatment among children

Willem van de Zee of the Parnassia Groep is convinced that bringing our foundations together to create one solid front to treat young addicts is a fantastic idea. The young addict is vulnerable and must be treated in his own country. He should not have to be sent abroad. The young addict must never be discarded, they must always be seen as the future of the nation. Treatment of our youth must never terminated, whether they are an addict or suffers from psychic problems. They must be helped so they can be reintegrated into the community in the best way possible.

Pope Francis: 'Who am I to judge' gays?

VATICAN CITY (AFP) Pope Francis reached out to gays on Monday, declaring that it is not his place to judge them -- while also condemning the Vatican's reported gay lobby as a "serious problem".

The remarks to journalists as he flew back to Rome from a high-profile trip to Brazil appeared to be more conciliatory towards homosexuals than his predecessor Benedict XVI.

"If someone is gay and seeks the Lord with good will, who am I to judge?" the pope asked.

"The problem is not having this orientation, it is lobbying. That's the most serious problem."

The pope had admitted in June that there was a "gay lobby" in the Vatican's secretive administration, the Roman Curia, according to a Latin American Catholic website.

It followed earlier Italian media reports claiming that a secret report by cardinals investigating Vatican leaks included allegations of corruption and blackmail attempts against gay clergymen, and on the other hand, favouritism based on gay relationships

44 Customs Officers ready to work!

The new Custom Officers with Minister of Finance Mike de Meza

The last time there was a class for Custom Officers was back in 2008 when a total of 28 persons entered the Customs service. With the new class of 44 Customs Officers, the Aruba Customs Service has now filled the void to be left by those leaving on pension. They now can fulfill their role of adequately controlling our frontiers.

The program for entering the Customs Corps began in August 2012 and after nine months this big class completed the program to become "kommies." (Officers in the 2nd rank). This is the second rank in the hierarchy of the Customs. They entered as "hulp-kommies," temporary employees and now that they have completed the course they become a "kommies."

With these 44 employees, Customs has more officers to watch over our frontiers both at the Oranjestad wharf, San Nicolaas, Barcadera and at the airport. This need continue to grow in view of the large number of tourists arriving at the airport and via cruise ships. Along with this is the large amount of cargo arriving on the island daily. All efforts can be made to ensure that no illicit material enters our island, and to ensure that the government receives her fair share of income duties.

During the nine months course, various instructors were responsible for teaching this group. The material consisted of both theory and practice. The lessons included a list of laws relating to import duties, penalty issues, and import tariffs, etc. Also included were laws related to drugs, medicine, arms and the importation of livestock and meat.

Customs has existed on Aruba since 1834, way back in the colonial days. The first office of the Customs was located on the old pier where the former Bali Restaurant was located In 1986, Aruba received her own Inspector of Customs who resorted at the time under the Department of

In January 2013, a change was enacted in the Customs Department with this department assuming their own independence and resorting directly under the Minister of Finance. The Customs Corps today has 227 employees both in the hierarchy of the Customs as well as in administrative personnel.

I have learned:

that the fishing line on (fishing)trips with my father, when I was a boy, is a main line in today's time;

that love, not time, heals all wounds;

that when you harbor bitterness, happiness will find another mooring place, that you are hooked for life, when your newly born child grabs your little finger, that climbing the mountain, is more adventurous than living on the top;

that being kind is more important than being right, that I can always pray for someone when I don't have the strength to help him/her in some other way, that sometimes all a person needs is a hand to hold and a heart to understand:

that a little smile could substitute for good morning;

that life goes on and that it will be better tomorrow;

that I have learned that I have a lot to learn.

Quit now, Democrats tell embattled Weiner

NEW YORK CITY (AFP) -A majority of New York Democrats want disgraced former Congressman Anthony Weiner out of the race to be the city's next mayor, according to a poll published on Monday.

Weiner, who admitted last week to conducting a steamy cyber affair a year after similar conduct forced him to resign from Congress, has already been urged to quit by Democrat bigwigs.

The latest survey, carried out by Quinnipiac University's Polling Institute, found 53 percent of registered Democrats want him to quit the race, against 40 percent who say he should continue to campaign.

The poll also confirmed that last week's salacious revelations about his online relationship with Sydney Leathers have left him with little chance of winning the September primary. From being the frontrunner in June, he has slid to fourth in the Democrat field, with only 16 percent support.

City Council speaker Christine Quinn leads the pack with 27 percent and Weiner is also now trailing Bill de Blasio and William Thompson.

"With six weeks to go, anything can happen but it looks like former Congressman Anthony Weiner may have sexted himself right out of the race," said Quinnipiac director Maurice Carroll

Weiner was dealt another blow over the weekend when his campaign manager Danny Kedem quit, telling friends that the candidate had not been upfront with him about the nature of the damaging revelations likely to emerge on the hustings.

David Axelrod, the strategist who guided President Barack Obama to his election victories, has told Weiner he is wasting his time continuing the fight "Americans believe in second chances, but not third chances," he said.

Weiner shrugged off the advice. "I don't take my views on politics from the Sunday talk shows," he said Monday. "Or from the headline writers. These are the people who did not want me to run in the first place. I'm going to keep talking about the things that matter to this city."

Weiner's 2011 resignation from Congress came after he accidentally tweeted a picture of himself in his underwear to all his followers rather than the young woman he was then courting online.

Nevertheless, "the catechism of the Catholic Church says clearly that we must not marginalise these people who should be integrated in the society," he added.

The Italian weekly L'Espresso this month reported that Ricca had gay relationships during his time at the Vatican embassy of Montevideo in Uruguay as well as an affair with a Swiss guard which ultimately saw him sent back to Rome in disgrace in 2010.

Because of an internal bid to cover up Ricca's activities, Francis apparently was unaware of his past before appointing him as his personal

In closing arguments, deattorney David Coombs said Manning was no traitor but rather a "young, naive and good-intentioned" whistleblower who wanted to encourage public debate about US foreign policy.

The prosecution insists Manning recklessly betrayed his uniform and his country by leaking documents he knew Al-Qaeda would see and use.

Manning's supporters argue that a conviction would be a huge blow for press freedoms in the United States and would deter future whistleblowers from exposing government wrongdoing.

Cannes jewellery heist 'worth about $136 million'

CANNES (AFP) - An armed man who staged a brazen heist in a French Riviera luxury hotel took off with jewels worth $136 million (103 million euros), prosecutors said Monday, in one of the world's biggest jewellery thefts.

Undisturbed by security staff, the man on Sunday walked into the Carlton in the posh resort of Cannes -- a hotel popular with film stars that was once the location of Alfred Hitchcock's thriller "To Catch A Thief"

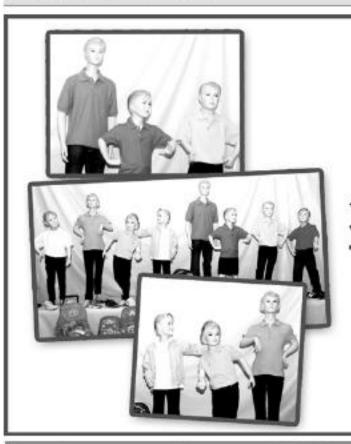

Armed with a semi-automatic pistol, his head covered with a cloth, he proceeded to steal items that were part of an exhibition by a group owned by Israeli billionaire Lev Leviev, escaping with a briefcase full of jewels and watches incrusted in diamonds

Authorities had initially estimated the heist was worth $53 million (40 million euros), but after an inventory of the exhibition, prosecutors in Grasse near Cannes have concluded that it is valued at a much higher $136 million.

As such, it comes head-tohead with what is considered the world's largest ever haul of jewellery -- valued at around 100 million euros -which took place in Belgium

It is also France's biggest diamond heist, eclipsing a 2008 incident when three men stole almost every piece on display at a jewellery exhibition in Paris, a theft valued at 85 million euros.

FBI sting frees 105 sexually abused youths, nets 150 pimps

WASHINGTON (AFP) - A sting focused on underage prostitution has freed 105 sexually abused youths and netted 150 pimps, the FBI announced Monday.

The extensive, three-day sweep took place in 76 US cities in conjunction with local, state, and federal law enforcement, as well as the the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC), it said in a statement.

Most of the freed youths are young teenagers aged 13 to 16, said Ronald Hosko, assistant director of the FBI's Criminal Investigative Division

"Our goal is that child trafficking is openly discussed," he told reporters. "We are trying to take this crime out of the shadows and put a spotlight on it... to put them (the children) out of the cycle."

NCMEC CEO John Ryan said the sting, dubbed Operation Cross Country, "demonstrates just how many of America's children are being sold for sex every day, many on the Internet."

The Justice Department has estimated that nearly 450,000 children run away from home each year and that one-third of teens living on the street will be lured toward prostitution within 48 hours of leaving home.

Self-defense law helped black teen's killer get away with murder: mother

MIAMI (AFP) - The mother of Trayvon Martin said Monday the volunteer neighborhood watchman who shot her unarmed son got away with murder thanks a controversial self-defense law.

George Zimmerman was acquitted of killing the 17year-old Martin following a trial that stirred up controversy on "stand your ground" laws, which assert citizens can use lethal force if they fear their lives are in danger, even if they might have been able to safely retreat.

"The thing about this law is I just think it assisted the person who killed my son to get away with murder," Sybrina Fulton told a National Bar Association conference in Miami Beach.

"I think we have to change these laws so people don't get away with murder," she added

Martin was walking through a gated Florida community, carrying iced tea and sweets, when Zimmerman fatally shot him after a confrontation.

Zimmerman's trial lawyers did not explicitly invoke the "stand your ground" law during the trial, arguing instead that he acted in self-defense in the traditional sense.

But the case stirred up controversy around such laws, present in some 30 states.

US Attorney General Eric Holder has urged a rethink of such laws. However, Florida Governor Rick Scott has said he will not seek a rollback.

Civil rights leaders have vowed to use Florida as a testing ground to challenge and change "stand your ground" laws, which they feel disproportionately impact African Americans and people of color.

Mexican admiral killed in ambush

MEXICO CITY (AFP) - A Mexican admiral has been shot to death in an ambush in a region where security forces have been battling a powerful drug cartel, officials said Monday.

The government's spokesman on security matters, Eduardo Sanchez, said the military had arrested three members of the group suspected of carrying out the attack Sunday in the western state of Michoacan.

He said gunmen opened fire on an official vehicle carrying Vice Admiral Carlos Miguel Salazar Ramonet, who was traveling on an unpaved road The admiral's vehicle had turned onto the dirt road after finding that the highway it was traveling on was blocked.

Michoacan has been the scene of violent clashes between security forces and a drug gang known as the Knights Templar.

On Tuesday, four police and at least 20 suspected gang members were killed in a series of gun battles in the state, according to the government.

President Enrique Pena Nieto ordered a major operation in May targeting the Knights Templars in Michoacan after villagers began organizing their own self-defense groups.

15 Cairo street vendors killed in fight: security

CAIRO (AFP) - At least 15 people were killed on Monday night in a brawl between Cairo street vendors over space, including 13 who were burned to death, a security source told AFP.

The source said two people died of gunshot and stab wounds in an initial brawl in central Cairo, and 13 more were killed after the shop they took refuge in was set on fire.

"Fifteen people were killed, including 13 who were burned to death, in a brawl between a number of vendors from two families... over an old disagreement on vendor spaces," the source said.

The source said the fight broke out between street vendors and shopowners in the Moski area in Old Cairo.

Security forces and firefighters moved into the area in the wake of the fight and put out the fire started during the brawl

They discovered the 13 bodies of people killed in the blaze and arrested several people, the source added.

There were no initial indications that the deadly melee was linked to the political turmoil that has engulfed Egypt since the July 3 ouster of the Islamist president in an army coup.

Bananas, pain killers do trick for world's oldest man

NEW YORK CITY (AFP) - A US drug company said it was considering a banana-flavored version of its pain reliever after the world's oldest man attributed his longevity to the fruit and the drug.

Spanish-born Salus-"Shorty" tiano Sanchez Blazquez, a 112year-old former miner lives close to Niagara Falls in upstate New York, was named by Guinness World Records as the oldest certified man on the planet Thursday.

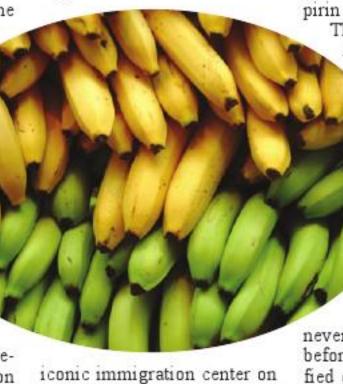

He succeeded Japan's Jiroemon Kimura, who died on June 12 at the age of 116. According to Guinness, Sanchez-Blazquez is currently the only male born in 1901 with proof of birth

From his birthplace in Spain, he moved at 17 to Cuba, where he worked on sugar plantations, before arriving in the United States via the believed he had lived to such an old age thanks to a daily dose of a banana and six tablets of Anacin, a branded pain-reliever that includes aspirin and caffeine.

> That naturally delighted Anacin's manufacturer Insight Pharmaceuticals.

> > "Historically, apples are the fruit most associated with staying healthy avoiding doctors," said marketing vice-president Jennifer Moyer.

"Our scientists had never looked into the banana before. But now that the certified oldest man in the world credits bananas and Anacin as his life-extending combo, we're certainly going to explore whether a new 'Bananacin' product makes sense."

World Breastfeeding Week 2013 (1 - 7 August)

-- This year's World Breastfeeding Week (WBW) theme, BREASTFEEDING SUPPORT: CLOSE TO MOTHERS', highlights Breastfeeding Peer Counselling. Even when mothers are able to get off to a good start, all too often in the weeks or months after delivery there is a sharp decline in breastfeeding rates, and practices, particularly exclusive breastfeeding. The period when mothers do not visit a healthcare facility is the time when a community support system for mothers is essential. Continued support to sustain breastfeeding can be provided in a variety of ways. Traditionally, support is provided by the family. As societies change, however, in particular with urbanization, support for mothers from a wider circle is needed, whether it is provided by trained health workers, lactation consultants, community leaders, or from friends who are also mothers, and/or from fathers/partners. The Peer Counselling Program is a cost effective and highly productive way to reach a larger number of mothers more frequently. Peer Counsellors can be anyone from the community who is trained to learn to support mothers. Trained Peer Counsellors, readily available in the community become the lifeline for mothers with breastfeeding questions and issues. "The key to best breastfeeding practices is continued day-to-day support for the breastfeeding mother within her home and community."

UAE condemns Indian to death for raping young girl

DUBAI (AFP) - A UAE court on Monday sentenced to death a 57-year-old Indian man convicted of raping a seven-yearold girl at an Abu Dhabi school, the victim's family lawyer told AFP.

A lower court in Abu Dhabi court found the Indian man guilty of raping the girl at a school cafeteria where he was employed and of "threatening to kill" her if she reported the attack, lawyer Hussein al-Jaziri said.

The ruling, which must still be confirmed by the courts of appeals and cassation, will give hope to the victim and her family that justice has been achieved," said the lawyer.

He urged parents of children who are victims of rape, a taboo among conservative Emirati families, to report such crimes.

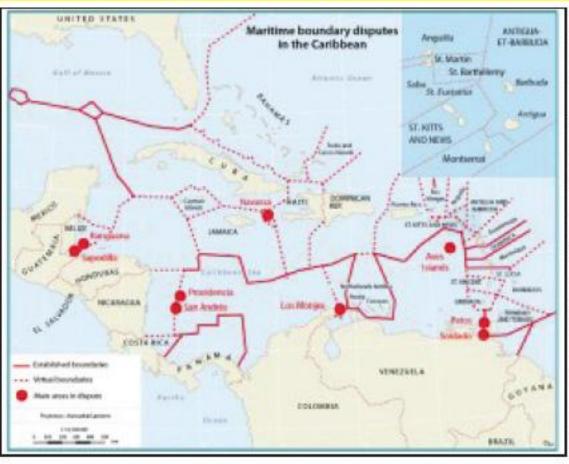

Executions are rare in the United Arab Emirates, where death sentences are typically commuted to life in prison.

In February 2011 an Emirati man convicted of raping and murdering a Pakistani child in a Dubai mosque was executed -- the first in 10

Oil Reserves in the Caribbean Shifting Geopolitical Scales

--The Costa Rica News (TCRN) — Latin America is the largest and fastest growing emerging market on the globe, but with that, consider that the oil reserves under the Caribbean Basin are on the same scale as those of the Persian Gulf, the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden combined and further, that studies indicate three thousand more times natural gas than oil.

Big oil companies, and governments from Haiti to Costa Rica, are highly focused on their respective energy reserves. This is the reason why there has been a plethora of territory disputes, in the Caribbean although mostly ignored by main stream media.

According to Atlas Caribbean (http://atlas-caraibe.certic.unicaen.fr/en/pa ge-122.html), two thirds of the Caribbean's international maritime boundaries have yet to

PU-Da ... connecting with you www.rexaruba.com be the object of an agreed convention between the bordering states in question

Since Petrocaribe's implementation 2005, the Caribbean region has benefited enormously from the operation. Member countries, such as Jamaica, Cuba, Antigua and Barbuda, Nicaragua and Honduras, were permitted to pay 40% of Venezuelan oil imports within 90 days and pay the remaining 60% at low annual interest rate of 1% over a 17-25 year period

After Hugo Chavez's death, the future does not look so good. The present president, Nicolas Maduro, recently increased the 1% interest rate to, in some cases, as high as 4%1. Venezuela is undoubtedly one of the region's largest creditor.

Last year, Jamaica was estimated to owe Venezuela approximately $2.4 billion for oil. While, according to Bloomberg, some have estimated that 35% of external Caribbean debt will be owed to Venezuela by the year 2015.

Developed nations now see the Caribbean oil rush as the new focus, and much easier to access and control than the problematic Middle East. As a result the disputes between countries with territory in the Caribbean are escalating and experts predict these disputes will only grow and become more aggressive as exploration exposes the true value of the energy reserves under the Caribbean.

Apple China supplier imposes overtime, hires minors: group

BEIJING (AFP) - Three Chinese factories making Apple products impose excessive overtime and employ minors, a US-based advocacy group said on Monday, renewing scrutiny of labour practices by the US tech giant's suppliers.

The iPhone and iPad maker has faced pressure to better oversee often-poor manufacturing conditions in China since 13 workers for one of its suppliers committed suicide in 2010.

US-based China Labor Watch said in a report that three plants run by Pegatron Group violated standards set by Apple.

Apple's website says that these include no underage labour, overtime to be voluntary, and a maximum 60-hour workweek.

China Labor Watch said the 70,000 employees at the three Pegatron sites averaged 66, 67 and 69 hours per week, and that "many workers" were under 18, some of them interns from vocational schools.

Overtime was mandatory

during busy periods, it said, adding that employees at one site who refused to work extra hours once would lose the chance to do so for the rest of the month.

The report also described crowded dormitory rooms housing up to 12 people, insufficient fire escape routes and fines for behaviour such as "failing to tuck in one's chair after eating" and "absence from unpaid meetings".

It also said managers screened out job applicants who were pregnant or older than 35, and rushed through safety training.

Apple said in a statement it had audited Pegatron facilities 15 times since 2007 and found last month that their workweek averaged 46 hours.

China Labor Watch said it sent undercover investigators to the three factories and conducted nearly 200 worker interviews between March and July this year.

Pegatron Group, a Taiwanese company, could not immediately be reached for comment.

IMF approves 1.7 bn euro loan payout to Greece

WASHINGTON (AFP) - The International Monetary Fund released 1.72 billion euros ($2.29 billion) in aid for Greece on Monday after completing a review of the country's performance under the international rescue program.

The latest disbursement means that Greece has received a total of roughly 8.24 billion euros ($10.94 billion) from the IMF under the bailout coordinated with the European Union and the European Central Bank in March 2012.

On Friday, the 18-nation eurozone gave the green light for the release of 4.0 billion euros in bailout funds for Greece after it had met program conditions.

Twice bailed-out Greece still faces a funding shortfall of some 3.8 billion euros late next year but its troika of international creditors are not overly concerned, a senior EU official said Friday, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"There is a program financing gap of about 3.8 billion to the end of 2014," the European Union source said, adding that in the eyes of the experts involved, this figure was "not enormous."

Greece was first bailed out for 110 billion euros in 2010 but when that failed, got a second rescue worth 130 billion euros

Fed policymakers expected to stay the course

WASHINGTON (AFP) - The Federal Reserve holds a monetary policy meeting this week amid intense speculation about the timing of a wind-down of massive stimulus, although few expect a change in direction

The Federal Open Market Committee will wrap up a twoday meeting Wednesday with a policy statement that will be closely scrutinized for clues on how quickly the Fed will begin to taper its $85 billion-a-month asset-purchases program.

There will be no news conference with Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke to further shed light on the central bank's thinking, as there was six weeks ago after the prior FOMC meeting.

Bernanke suggested the Fed could begin cutting the assetpurchase program, also known as quantitative easing, later this year and end it in mid2014 if the economy continued to improve.

Markets appeared to ignore his assertion that the Fed's key federal funds rate, at 0.0-0.25 percent since December 2008, would not rise before 2015.

Interest rates jumped more than a full percentage point in two months, pushing mortgage rates suddenly higher, raising concerns they could snuff out the housing market recovery, one of the few bright spots in the sluggish economy.

In later comments, particularly two days of twice-yearly testimony to Congress in mid-July, Bernanke sought to assure markets that the near-zero interest rate would stay put for a while, given the "weak" economy.

The Fed has said any rate hikes still hinged on reducing the unemployment rate, now at 7.6 percent, to 6.5 percent or less, and keeping inflation tame at around 2.0 percent.

The Fed policy meeting falls between two major reports -on growth and the jobs market in the world's largest economy.

Hours before the panel ends its deliberations on Wednesday, the Commerce Department will publish its first estimate of gross domestic product for the second quarter.

After a spate of disappointing data, economists on average are forecasting GDP growth slowed to an annual rate of 1.1 percent from 1.8 percent in the first quarter.

The July jobs report Friday was expected to show the unemployment rate ticked down to 7.5 percent from 7.6 percent

But jobs growth also was seen as falling, by 20,000 to 175,000.

"Whether GDP moves up or employment down will be a key issue for the Fed as well as markets in coming months -arguably, more important than the pace for GDP in Q2," said Jim O'Sullivan, chief US economist at High Frequency Economics.

While there was little anticipation of a change in monetary policy coming out of the FOMC meeting that begins Tuesday, analysts predicted the panel would try to improve its communications.

"Markets are pressing the Fed for better forward guidance on quantitative easing, and it would be prudent for the central bank to comply," said Ryan Sweet of Moody's Analytics.

Moody's predicted the Fed will reduce its asset purchases in September by $20 billion per month, evenly split between Treasuries and mortgage-backed securities.

HFE's Sullivan and other analysts agreed the tapering was likely to begin after the September 17-18 FOMC meeting and that expectation had already been fairly baked into the markets

Sullivan said the post-meeting statement would probably be reworded to suggest tapering could begin soon.

Ed Yardeni of Yardeni Research said the Fed would be looking to minimize adverse market reactions.

Bernanke is hunting for an opportunity to taper the bond purchases "but the economic data are not giving the Fed the justification to pursue the policy it wants to have the justification to pursue," said Robert Brusca of FAO Economics.

NY fast food workers strike for living wage

NEW YORK CITY(AFP) -Hundreds of workers at Mc-Donald's and other fast food outlets across New York went on strike Monday for higher wages in a movement organizers hope will spread nationwide.

Sporadic walkouts left managers to serve customers at flagship McDonald's outlets on Times Square and 5th Avenue in Manhattan.

Organizers said the strike had hit around 60 restaurants operated by McDonald's, Wendy's, KFC and Burger King across the New York area.

The striking workers are demanding the introduction of a standard wage of $15/hour, more than twice the $7.25 minimum wage that many fast food employees earn here. The average wage in the sector in New York is around $9/hour and, unlike staff in mainstream restaurants, employees cannot count on their income being topped up by tips.

Jonathan Westin, director of Fast Food Forward, the campaign group spearheading the strike movement, said workers needed $15/hour to meet basic living standards in one of the most expensive cities in the world.

Fast Food Forward began as a local campaign in New York but the movement has spread across the country, and protests are also scheduled to take place this week in Chicago, Detroit, Flint, Michigan, Kansas City, Milwaukee and St Louis.

McDonald's said in a statement that the individual contracts of workers were a matter for the franchisees who operate more than 80 percent of the company's outlets around the world.

Exclusive interview with ASHTON KUTCHER

By Special Correspondent to Hollywood for THE MORNING NEWS, Noel de Souza

-- Ashton Kutcher's career graph reads like a rocket ship headed for outer space. He has gone from model to actor, then producer and creator of television shows to investments in various technological start-up companies such as Skype. He is also the co-founder of venture capital fund A-grade investments and has started his own tee-shirt business. Now he is the star of the motion picture "JOBS"- with the tough role of bringing to the screen iconic innovator Steve Jobs. creator and founder of Apple computers, from designing the first PC, to his long, final battle with chronic illness.

NDS: ACTING IS AN ARISTIC ENDEVOR AND WHEN AN ACTOR BE-COMES AN ENTREPRE-NEUR, IT SEEMS TO ME THAT HE WEARS A DIF-FERENT HAT

AK: I would say that I love creating things so whether I'm creating a character or helping someone build a company, it's still creating. I love providing the people around me in the world with things that make their life better and more enjoyable and whether I can do that artistically through the roles I play or artistically through the companies I advise, I gain a similar joy out of doing both.

As a young Steve Jobs

NDS: SO WHEN YOU DID THE FILM DID YOU IDENTIFY OR LEARN SOME THING THAT YOU CAN APPLY IN YOUR OWN BUSI-NESS?

AK: I would say simplicity that came from caring about the consumer. I learned that it just wasn't about making some thing useful, it was about making it simple and it was about painting the back of the fence that it just couldn't be beautiful on the outside, it needed to be beautiful on the inside and the parts that people don't even see need to be beautiful because you'll know if it's beautiful or not.

DNS: JOBS WAS A VI-SIONARY, DO YOU CON-SIDER YOUR SELF A VISIONARY?

AK: I would say that I just try to surround myself with people who know more than I do. I try to be the dumbest guy in every room that I go into and if you pursue being the dumbest guy in the room , what you'll find is you'll be surrounded by really smart people and your vision usually isn't you own. Your vision becomes a collective of those really smart people that you get to sit in rooms with and then it's your ability to actually execute the ideas they give you and share with you.

NDS: YOU ARE LISTED AS ONE OF THE MOST IN-FLUENTIAL PEOPLE IN THE WORLD. WHAT DOES BEING INFLUENTIAL MEAN TO YOU AND HOW DO YOU USE THAT POWER?

AK: I think that being influential is really a function of creating change, positive change and generous change. I would say that its probably the institution that starts to create that and if it is your effort and you find success, suddenly people call you influential. But being influential can be as simple as taking the time to think about and caring about the people you are sitting at a dining table with. Or taking the time to think about and care about the person that you see at the coffee stand every morning, because you could be influencing someone. Most of the influence that we actually give in the world is relatively unconscious. whether we smile at someone when we meet them, or whether we hold the door open for them. All these are influential situations. So eventually influence come down to caring about other people and then taking responsibility for the fact that you're affecting the world around you every sec-selves. We started looking at what are the things that we wear every single day and how do we find the best version of that, I wear tee-shirts every day. So I started a company with a guy Ryan Donohue called Pickwick and Weller in the pursuit of making the most ond of every moment of every day. People who take that responsibility tend to be the people that are very influential. This then works on a larger scale when one uses their influence to promote worthwhile causes.

NDS: YOU WHERE A MODEL AND YOUR STYLE OF DRESS IS IMPRESSIVE; WHAT WOULD YOU CON-SIDER YOUR PERSONAL STYLE?

AK: My personal style is probably more than anything a function of convenience and comfort. If it's comfortable and convenient that tends to be what I wear. I wear tee-shirts almost every day. Fashion tends to work from the outside- in, and I tend to work from the inside-out. A friend of mine and I had a conversation about this sort of reverse engineering fashion for our-comfortable tee-shirts in the world

NDS: WHAT ARE THE MUST HAVES IN YOUR CLOSET?

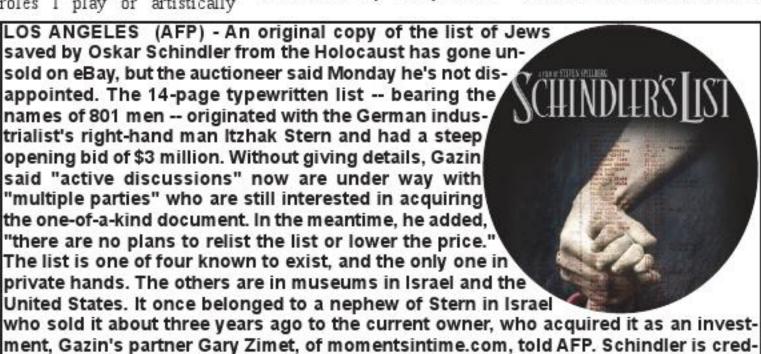

AK: Sneakers and teeshirts

NDS: SNEAKERS?

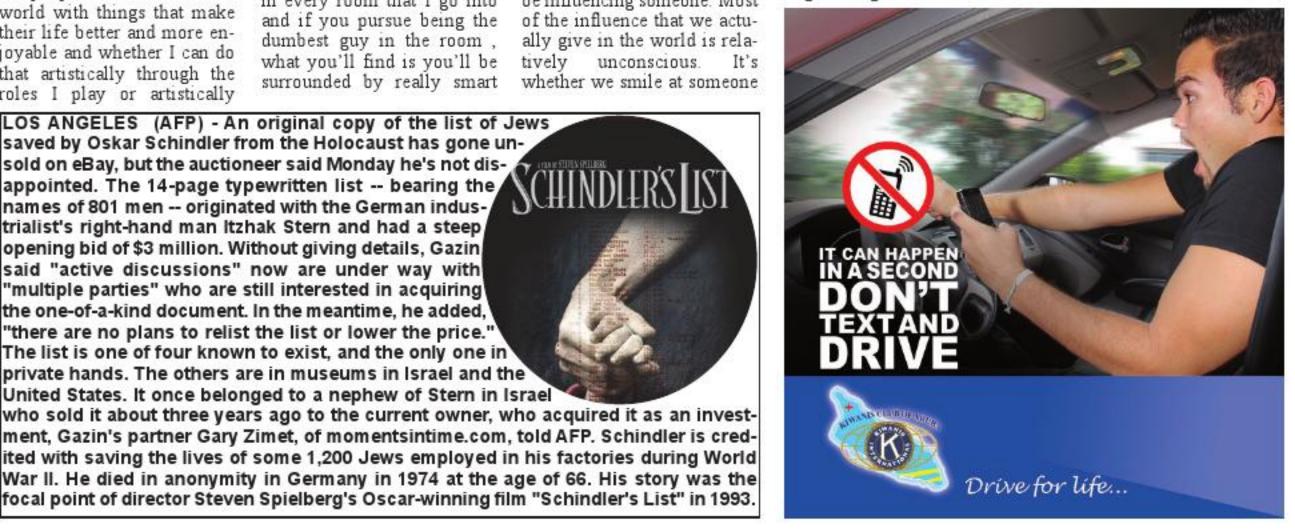

AK: Yeah, sneakers are comfortable and even if they are dress shoes I make sure that they are comfortable. I am an active guy, I like to walk a lot and run and sneakers that are comfortable do it for me. It is important for me, because happy feet are happy people.

NDS: YOU LOOK VERY MUCH IN SHAPE, WHAT DOES YOUR FINESS PRO-GRAM CONSIST OF?

AK: I'd say it's pretty much confined to running and ju jitsu. I find that these two things work for me.

5 Burgers Aruba: Now your best breakfast bargain!

Delicious Breakfast

--A favorite stop for a great burger for lunch or dinner has just expanded their hours and menu to offer some of the best breakfast bargains to be found in Palm Beach. Owners Aaron and Rosie Walisever are living their dream: a home on paradise while welcoming all and sundry to their proud undertaking, 5 Burgers Aruba. The couple's fanatical dedication to giving their customers what they really want has resulted in a unique menu from an internationally known franchise with a "5", which now includes breakfast.

"You never get a second chance to make a first impression," believes Aaron. Upon entering 5 Burgers Aruba in The Village Mall in Palm Beach, one is struck by utterly spotless surroundings and a smiling, friendly, attentive service crew. Of course, the main item on the menu is burgers-the way they were meant to be, thick and juicy, made fresh daily and 100% pure beef, the kind that made the hamburger a traditional American treat.

However, beginning at 8 a.m., patrons can now order 2 eggs any style, (omelets with 3 fillings are $7.99) toast and coffee with unlimited refills for the special introductory price of only $4.99,($5.48 with bacon) or All-you-caneat pancakes, for $6.99, with free refills on fresh coffee. A new plate called the "Home Run" comes with 2 eggs, bacon or sausage, 2 pancakes, toast, home fries, with complimentary, unlimited coffee for only $9.99! Breakfast is served until 11 a.m. Famous for their fries made from fresh potatoes, Aaron has been working for months on devising the most irresistible home fries recipe, chunky and tender with skins still on, after much testing and tasting, he got the thumbs up from his harshest critic, Rosie; so this is another treat you have to try.

A glance at their burger menu will certainly tempt you to return for lunch or dinner, to sample their famous specialty items such as the Gouda, Farmer's or Man Burger (almost 12 ounces of choice beef), and a Western Burger with Aarons' secret-recipe crispy onion rings. All of these can be personalized with an incredible array of toppings, (mushrooms, jala-peño peppers, bacon, cheese, lettuce, tomato whatever, the list goes on) at absolutely no extra

5 Burger portions are ENORMOUS! Aaron suggests that even their small serving of fries is enough to be shared by two. He was very amused to watch a famous French chef demonstrating the best way to make fried potatoes on a gourmet cooking show and could only comment "He stole my recipe!"

Try them the English waywith vinegar, and you'll wonder how you ever ate fries without it. This same 5-star chef also swears by Gouda as the best topping for the ideal gourmet cheeseburger.

5 Burgers is now open from 8am to 10pm-ish Sunday - Thursday. For those late night diners, 5 Burgers is open until 3AM-ish on Friday & Saturdays! Delivery is available to most Hotels and most beaches! Enjoy a great lunch without ever leaving the beach by calling 586-3904. However, we suggest you stop by and enjoy their authentic, heartfelt hospitality, it is not unusual for either owner to sit and chat, sharing their knowledge of the island while making sure patrons are happy with their meal.

MLB: Alex Rodriguez facing | Cycling: Zabel resigns possibility of lifetime ban

-- Alex Rodriguez is expected to fight any suspension imposed by Major League Baseball, a source said Sunday, as it now appears suspensions are imminent for the Yankees third baseman and others in the Biogenesis probe.

Major League Baseball officials expect to hear from Alex Rodriguez concerning a deal they offered that would suspend the Yankees third baseman for this season and next in exchange for avoiding a lifetime ban and being able to collect much of the remaining money on his large contract, it was reported Sunday.

Swimming: Franklin on track to Football: follow in Dhelne' footstens Former champions put follow in Phelps' footsteps

BARCELONA (AFP) - American teen swimming sensation Missy Franklin took another step towards matching Michael Phelps' eight gold medal haul from the Beijing Olympics five years ago at the swimming world championships in Barcelona on Monday.

The 18-year-old cruised into Tuesday's final of the 100 metres backstroke, registering the fastest time in the semi-finals of 59.31 seconds to suggest that she could even threaten Gemma Spofforth's world record from the world championships four years ago.

Records though are not her principal target.

"I haven't thought about the world record," she said. "I'm just going to go out there, swim and have fun. I think when you reduce it down to a number you lose what it's really all about."

What does matter to the four-time gold medallist from the London Olympics last year is medals and she was given extra motivation by bumping into Phelps in the Catalan capital

The decorated most

Olympian of all time is not competing in Barcelona after retiring following the London Games, but Franklin insists he still remains an inspiration.

"I saw him yesterday and that was wonderful. "His legacy speaks for itself and we have to try and create our own."

And that is exactly what the California born swimmer is doing as she also attempts to add the 50 and 200m backstroke, 100 and 200m freestyle and the 4x200m relay and 4x100m medley relay to her I first world championship gold which she claimed with her US teammates in the 4x100m relay on Sunday evening.

Another demanding day for Franklin starts early on today same event just minutes after I ons Route. the 100m backstroke final later in the evening.
